

Intuitive Communication with Animals and Nature

The sentient intuitive path with animals and nature

During my many years as a mountain farmer, I deepened my relationship with animals and nature and began to study and practice communication with animals and nature. On this path I came across Marta Williams' master program and was authorized by her to apply my knowledge. I am nearing the end of the certification process and consider myself a lifelong learner in Intuitive Communication.

Intuitive Communication with animals and nature is two-way. We are in a constant flow of communication with each other, even if we are not aware of it.

Intuitive communication allows us to become aware of this communication flow and supports the relationship we have with animals and nature.

I support you to understand your animal(s) more deeply and to get to know yourself better in this way. Your animal can show you what is important, what it does not understand, why it acts or reacts the way it does.

You send me a picture of your animal with name, age, sex. Then we meet by phone, Skype/Zoom. I log into the universal field and check first impressions of the animal. After that, I establish contact with the animal in an intuitive way and ask it the questions you have prepared. These can be problems, behavioral anomalies, signals that you do not understand. ....

A reading usually takes about half an hour.

As a process-oriented coach, I can pick you up and work with you on your relationship with the animal and with yourself. I can also pick you up as a family/group, so that we can see how the relationship of the animal to the corresponding family with all roles can be viewed and worked on systemically.

My previous experiences have shown that the relationship to our animals deepens considerably through intuitive communication with them. The animals are happy when we communicate with them on eye level. They feel seen thereby and cooperate better with us. We also learn a lot about ourselves through intuitive communication, because animals are also our teachers.

It is also helpful to communicate intuitively with the nature that surrounds us. We learn that we are part of nature and deepen our relationship with the elements of air, earth, water, fire and their hidden powers and beings. We learn how nature regulates itself and we experience through intuitive feeling what it expects from us.

Intuitive communication is a way that I describe as "sentient intuitive", as intuitive feeling.
